NEW YORK, NY (PRNEWswire.COM.- Manhattan real estate tycoon and President of Hirschfeld Properties, LLC, Elie Hirschfeld publically announces the acquisition of "Ginkgo Trees in Central Park" (2002-2004, Oil on Canvas), an original painting by Françoise Gilot (born 1921).

"'Ginkgo Trees in Central Park' holds great meaning to me because it depicts a special New York City scene and reminds me of the large ginkgo tree in the backyard of my parents' home," said Elie Hirschfeld. "I am honored to have purchased this painting and own a small part of such a great history. Ms. Gilot is an inspiration to all, both as an artist and as a person. Through this acquisition, it was a pleasure getting to know Ms. Gilot and I look forward to our ongoing friendship."

In addition to her famous life associations and significant books highlighting her work, her paintings have graced the auction blocks of Sotheby's and the walls of renowned galleries around the world. Currently, her internationally recognized work is being shown in Tokyo.

Elie Hirschfeld is an avid art collector who began his collection with "The Artists Show in Washington Square Park" by Thomas Hart Benton. Since then, his collection has grown to hundreds of New York scenes. Some notable works include Andy Warhol's "Brooklyn Bridge," Frank Stella's "Squares" and Normal Rockwell's "Gramercy Park." His private collection is currently housed in his various Manhattan homes.
